National Gallery of Art
Washington, D. C.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

WASHINGTON: December 14: ¹⁹⁴⁵ The Honorable Harlan Fiske Stone, Chief Justice of the United States and Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the National Gallery of Art, announced today that, at the request of the Secretary of State, the Trustees of the National Gallery had agreed to accept custody of the paintings from German museums which might be brought to this country for safe-keeping until conditions in Germany insuring their proper care have been reestablished.

He stated that about two hundred paintings had arrived at the Gallery, having been safely transported to this country by the United States Army, and that arrangements are now being made to store these paintings in the Gallery's air-conditioned storage rooms. The Chief Justice added that he felt the United States Army deserved the highest praise for the care exercised in salvaging these great works of art and in making provision for their safety until they can be returned to Germany.
